

SUB-ZERO WAVE SWEEPS MID-WEST

POWERS PUT NAVAL NEEDS BEFORE ARMS MEETING IN LONDON

Delegates Present Demands, As Parley Gets
-- To Work

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
LONDON, Jan. 23.—America's naval agreement of parity with Great Britain was laid before the assembled naval powers of the world today at the first full session
of the London naval arms
conference which saw an extremely cautious beginning of the difficult task of naval armament reduction.

By common agreement, no
specific programs of demands were made. The figures presented by each chief delegate were confined to self-presentations of his particular nation's needs from the standpoint of naval strength as related to geographical position and political responsibilities.

A peaceful atmosphere pervaded
the meeting, none of the delegates exhibited a hostile desire to question the positions of the others.

Secretary of State Stimson started, his speech by declaring that he would make no complete statement of America's requirements at this meeting but added
that "these requirements are well understood and cheerfully recognized by the country that is our host."

"We are agreed that there shall be naval equality between us," he went on, "and believe that is the best method of promoting the beneficial aims of the conference."

Stimson stressed the fact that naval needs were relative to world conditions and that if a way was found for general reduction of navies, the United States navy could be reduced. He expressed a fervid hope that a way for general reduction would be found.

His remarks were comparatively brief but throughout his speech he emphasized that parity with Great Britain was the keystone of the whole American policy.

Following Stimson, the other chief delegates rose to speak one after another in alphabetical order.
J. E. Featon, speaking for Australia, emphasized the need for national security. He declared that Australia had learned from experience the necessity for national security.

Premier Tardieu of France followed with the most extensive speech of the day. He quoted voluntarily statistics designed to show that France was entitled to rank with the highest from the standpoint of naval needs.

He served notice that France's policy must be considered most seriously and declared that she must be represented by a navy
large enough to protect her far seas.

He gave detailed figures depicting the length of coastline and the length of lines of communication between the colonies which France had to protect in the interests of her trade.

He asserted that the absolute requirements based on the need as described could only become relative if it were made clear whether in the event of a conflict France would have to depend solely on her own navy or whether there would be international cooperation against the aggressor nation.

Premier Macdonald dwelt heavily upon the fact that the isolated position of the British Isles made great Britain depend on her sea
power for her very bread.

"Free access to the sea is a matter of life or death with the British."

TWO KILLED AT NUPTIAL PARTY

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23.—Gangster's gunnery today, police believe,
to a wedding party in a killing
scene, with two men shot dead,
police are searching for a third unman in connection with the aying after, it is believed, he revenge the death of a gangster rusher.

Just as some 400 men and women were concluding the wedding ceremony which followed the marriage of Angeline and John Candler, Leo Bedetto, 35, drew a revolver and shot Joseph Cirli-ne, 42, in the back. As Bedetto rushed to run away, another member of the party drew a revolver
and shot him, then made his escape
with the crumpled body of Bedetto.

Both victims were pronounced dead when they were taken to the legion hospital.

ILL-FATED PILOTS

Pilot Basil Russell, top, and Assistant Pilot Freddie Walker, below, were among the sixteen who lost their lives in the crash of the TAT-Madux air line plane near San Clemente, Cal. In making an emergency landing the plane burst into flames.

ARRANGE FUNERALS FOR CRASH VICTIMS IN SADDENED HOMES

Burial Services To Start
Friday For Children

BEREA, O., Jan. 23.—The black wings of death cast a sinister
shadow over six homes here today
as heart-torn and grief-stricken parents and families made preparations for funerals of the nine children and a man whose lives were snatched away in yesterday's gruesome bus tragedy near here
yesterday.

Robert-like these bereaved families moved today. In their minds
they carried the horrible imprint of yesterday's terrible scene—a scene, which, undoubtedly, they will carry with them to their own graves. It is a picture of a monstrous steel demon plunging into a loaded school bus of happy children.

Two of the child victims will be buried in Woodvale Cemetery tomorrow afternoon. They are William Davidson, 14, and his seven-year-old brother, Vernon.

In the household of Valentine Zelinski, which was hardest hit by the tragedy, funeral services will be held Saturday morning for the three little children. Two of them are girls, Dorothy, 11, and Rita, 9.
The other is a boy, Vincent, 6.

Funeral services for Jacob Walters, 12 and his nine-year-old sister, Juanita, will be held Saturday afternoon. They will be buried in Lutheran Cemetery.

Ten-year-old William Pastorek
will be buried tomorrow morning after funeral services at St. Adel-bert's Church.

The body of Evelyn Koltenbach,
7, will be buried in Calvary Cemetery Saturday following funeral services at St. Mary's Church.

John Taylor, 36, driver of the ill-fated bus, who was himself a father, will be buried Saturday in Lutheran Cemetery following funeral services at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

PIQUA BLOCK BURNS

PIQUA, O., Jan. 23.—The entire force of the Piqua fire department was called out late last night in an effort to save the Midway Department store block which was damaged to the extent of $200,000.

The building housed several business establishments.

THE LONE SURVIVOR Little Ethel Mae Davidson Can't Realize Fate That Took Her Companions

BEREA, O., Jan. 23.—A confused and befuddled little twelve-year-old girl lay in Berea Community Hospital
here today propped among
fleece white pillows and sheets,
and twitching now and then
from the pain of her broken leg.

She, Ethel Mae Davidson, is the lone survivor of yesterday's horrible bus crash in which her two brothers, Willie, 14, and Vernon, 7, with seven other of her playmates and a bus driver,
were instantly killed.

It is hard for Ethel to understand. She has played her last game of tag with Jake, Evelyn, Juanita and the others. Never again will she be able to play
"mother" and "house" with these playmates, who were closest to her.

Now she must find new playmates.

Ethel's first thoughts when she came out of the anesthetic

administered at the hospital
to allow removal of gravel
which had been ground into her broken leg, were of "Willie, Vernie, and the others?"

Her father, Will Davidson, a usually brusque railroad worker,
replied softly: "They're all right,
dear."

Mrs. Davidson, the mother, was a pathetic shock-stricken figure today. Standing in front of her home yesterday watching the ill-fated school bus
draw away with her children,
she saw the train bearing down
on the bus as it approached the crossing. She saw the impending tragedy and when she saw the crash was inevitable, she turned her head. She could not look.

Hundreds of the curious visited the scene of the crash last night. They walked up and down the tracks, picking up ripped schoolbooks, buttons,
and scraps of clothing that were strewn along the tracks.

ENGLISH PASTOR SEES LITTLE HOPE FOR PEACE IN ADDRESS

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 23.—Unification of the Christian Church throughout the world continued to be the theme of the pentecostal centennial celebration, as the sessions were resumed here today.
More than 5,000 delegates and speakers from all parts of the world are attending the centennial,
which will continue until Saturday.
Declaring that the nations of the world have not worked hard enough to win international peace, Frederick Norwood, pastor of City Temple, of London, closed yesterday's session with an address before the Ohio pastors' convention, which is being held as a part of the centennial.

The English minister expressed little hope for any immediate development in the progress of the cause for world peace. He declared that a future development of the soul will burn human interest toward the spiritual things of the universe, and away from the grossly material.

"Science, especially physics," Norwood said, "is becoming more and more interested in the study of the characteristics of space with a gradual, but certainly growing disinterest in the facts of human nature."

Other speakers who addressed
parts of the convention yesterday were Dr. William O. Thompson, president-elect of Ohio State University, chairman of the Ohio
Pastors' Convention; Mrs. Induk Kim, extension secretary of the student volunteer movement; a nation of Korea; Dr. George W. Richards, of Lancaster, Pa., president of the theological seminary of the Reformed Church; Dr. W. H. Mc-Master, of Alliance, president of Mount Union College, and several prominent Ohio ministers.

BLAME DRIVER FOR BUS CRASH WEDNESDAY

Negligence Charged By Coroner; Favors Two-
Man Operation

BEREA, O., Jan. 23.—Negligence of the driver was responsible for the horrible
bus tragedy near here yesterday which wiped out the lives of ten persons—nine of them children—Coroner A. J.
Pearse indicated today as bus
crash-stricken Ohio pressed demands to officials for a state-wide program for safety
control of school and passenger busses.

Formal verdict of the coroner
hinged this morning upon official statements of John Hand, 65-year-old engineer of the train which ploughed into the bus, and John Deal, fireman, Coroner Pearse indicated, however, that he was satisfied that negligence of John Taylor, 36, driver of the bus, was to blame for the accident.

In unofficial statements, both Hand and Deal said that neither saw the bus on the tracks in front of their locomotive. Neither said they realized an accident occurred
until they heard the crash.

"Evidence thus far," Coroner Pearse asserted, "shows that it was an unquestioned case of negligence.
There is an unobstructed view of the railroad at the point of the crash for perhaps three miles."

"My recommendation will be that the state of Ohio compel two men
to compose the crew of a bus, either school or commercial. In my belief, that is the only way to put a stop for once and for all to the many bus tragedies that have shocked the state recently. And we must put a stop to them."

The crash yesterday, which occurred just a year to the day from the bus disaster at Bellevue, O., where twenty-one persons lost their lives, brings the total of school children death victims in bus accidents in the last eighteen days to sixteen.

Coroner Pearse declared in stating his recommendation that two men be compelled to man all buses, that one man should do nothing but drive while the other
should take care of the passengers and be required to alight at every railroad crossing and signal the driver when it is safe for the bus to proceed.

Meanwhile, a pall of gloom hung over this district today, especially

WHERE NINE CHILDREN DIED IN BUS CRASH

Here is practically all that remained of a school bus which was struck by a New York Central mail
train on a grade crossing at Berea,
O., Cleveland suburb, snuffing out the lives of nine children and the bus driver. Nine children were killed in a similar bus accident at Shreve, O., less than three weeks ago. C. W. Riley, of Berea, is shown above, examining one of the books carried by the school
children.

SOLDIER MUST HANG FOR CHRISTMAS EVE MURDER IN ROBBERY

Youthful Private Is Convicted By Delaware
Jury

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 23.—
Private Louis Galvano, of Brooklyn, must hang for his part in the slaying of Arthur C. Cline, a fellow soldier at the Fort Du Pont
barracks, near here, on Christmas Eve.

He was found guilty of first degree murder by a jury last night after four hours deliberations. The penalty is death by hanging in the state of Delaware.

Private Alonzo Emery, of Huntsville, Tenn., who was arrested and tried with Galvano on a charge of murder, was acquitted but he will be tried again on the charge of being an accessory after the fact.

He is also a member of the First Engineers of Fort Du Pont.

Cline had been given a ten days furlough and was going home to spend the holidays with his aged parents at Amsterdam, N. Y., when he was shot and robbed.
Three days later his body was found in a field near St. Georges, Emery was arrested and confessed
to his part in the crime implicating Galvano. The Brooklyn youth, who is still in his teens, was arrested at his home and admitted
the shooting.

He did not take the stand in his own defense, his counsel electing to try to save him by placing his mother, sister and uncle on the stand. His father was reported seriously ill and unable to attend the trial.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT!

PAGING Mr. Ripley, Spring, believe it or not, must be just around the corner for Ed Lampert has seen the first robin. The harbinger of warmer weather was discovered by Mr.
Lampert perched in a bush in front of his home on Dayton Ave. Wednesday, despite the fact it was one of the coldest days of the winter.

ASSAIL FARM BOARD CRITICS IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Critics of the federal farm board were assailed on the house floor today
by Rep. James B. Aswell (D) of Louisiana, one of the leaders in the bi-partisan fight for the $500-000,000 farm relief law.

The farm board, he declared,
should have time to work out the elaborate machinery of co-operative marketing contemplated by the act without interference from congress.

"It is not statesmanlike, it is not patriotic, it is not fair to gentlemen in high places to nag the farm board especially since these gentlemen opposed the passage of the act and seem still ignorant of the provisions and purpose," said Aswell.

They demand that the farm
board publish its future plan of procedure. They remind the country of the moron who demanded that General Pershing publish in advance when and where he would fight each battle in France. The farm board is treading an unbeaten path, an uncharted course. It will fight each battle as it meets the enemy of the farmer. If left free, it will fight to victory under the flag.

CUSTOMS OFFICIALS AT NEW YORK ACCUSED OF ABUSE OF AUTHORITY

Granted Immunity To Standard Oil Head—
Is Charged

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Failure to collect $16,000 in penalties alleged due the United States government from Herbert L. Pratt, chairman of the Standard Oil Company of New York, for liquor alleged to have been smuggled into this country, was charged today to New York
customs officials.

The officials involved are Phillip Elting, collector of the port of New York; Colonel Arthur F. Foran, controller of customs; Henry C.
Stuart, assistant collector; Thomas
J. Skuse, assistant controller;
George Brewer, assistant solicitor;
and George O'Keefe, special agent
here of the treasury department.

An affidavit, it was learned, has been filed with President Hoover, accusing the six men of abuse of their official authority in granting immunity from penalties, neglect of duty, conspiracy to defraud the government, undue discrimination
and gross incompetency.

The charges were sent to the president January 9 by G. Rowland Munroe, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey on behalf of Ernest S. Braidwood of Somerville, N. J. Braidwood's name figured as one of the alleged raiders who made a mysterious
visit to the hunting lodge of Colonel Foran at Mount Airy, Henderson County, N. J., on Monday night.

According to charges of Braidwood, the customs officials failed to collect duties and penalties they should have levied, it was claimed,
after the seizure of a large amount of liquor on the steamship Excello
on May 20 of last year.

According to the affidavit, it was Excello brought a number of cases, supposed to contain flower pots but which really held champagne. The liquor it was charged was taken by truck to Pratt's home at Glen Cove, Long Island.

According to the affidavit, it was
"understood" that Pratt had agreed to pay $25,000 for the smuggled liquor.

The charges were denied by the accused customs officials.

Colonel Foran and William J.
Calhoun, prohibition director for New Jersey, were in Washington
for an investigation of the charges
later today, it was stated.

GOVERNMENT OPERATING COST INCREASES TREASURY REVEALS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Cost of operating the government departments and bureaus will be about $150,000,000 greater the year ending June 30, than during the 1929
fiscal year, according to figures available at the treasury today.

Receipts from all sources were estimated at over $150,000,000
greater than last year, although officials hesitated to fix a definite figure owing to the uncertainty of the March and June income tax payments.

The government is now running about $200,000,000 ahead of last year in revenue, but it was anticipated that owing to the business recession during the last quarter of 1929 and the unprecedented collapse of stock prices with losses running into billions of dollars, the March income tax returns would be substantially less than a year ago.

Total government expenses will not show such a large increase as

SHE'S FROM OHIO

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Miss Anna Belle Newcomb, of Lorain, O., personal stenographer to Assistant Secretary of State White, is one of the capable girls who are taking London by storm as members of the secretariat of the American delegation to the naval parley.

Miss Newcomb is petite and one of the prettiest girls among the eighteen who left the state department for London. She entered the state department June 16, 1924, having come there from Smith College, at Northampton, Mass., where she had been employed as a stenographer
since the previous January.

She attended Northampton
High School from 1918 until 1922, after which she took a two-year course at a business college.

EASTERN DIVISION BUS DRIVERS WALK OUT ON THURSDAY

Strike Called Over Greyhound Lines

CLEVELAND, Jan. 23.—Bus drivers of the eastern division of the Greyhound lines, operating from Chicago to points east,
including Scranton, Philadelphia,
Buffalo, and New York, were out on a strike today following a wage disagreement, according to Peter Brown, president of the organization of drivers here.

The strike affects more than 200
drivers, including those of the Great Lakes stages, which was absorbed by the Greyhound lines in December.

Requests that drivers refuse to start their runs were issued by the drivers' organization com-tee in charge of the strike, which completed arrangements for the walkout at a meeting in Painesville last night. Telegrams were dispatched immediately after the meeting to organizations in Philadelphia, Buffalo and New York.

Local bus officials declared today that they did not believe the walkout would affect service on their routes. Reserve drivers are being brought in to cover the runs.

The strike, according to officials of the drivers' organization is the result of a dispute over wage reductions and allowances which were discontinued after the Great Lakes lines were taken over by the Greyhound.

MARKET STEADY AT THURSDAY OPENING

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—All sections of the market were steady at the opening today, with narrow price changes, mostly upward. Fox Film reacted down 1/2 at 22 1/2; international Nickel was down 1/2 at 26 1/2 and other leaders of yesterday's closing spurt sold off on profit-taking.

Schulte, in the low-priced tobacco
group, opened fractionally higher, at 12 1/2 and sold up to 13 in the first period.

U. S. Steel was up 1/4 at 170 1/2;
Bethlehem down 1/4 at 96 1/2; Anaconda Copper up 1/2 at 71; Ken-cott Copper up 1/4 at 56 1/2.

DEATH, SUFFERING FOLLOW COLD WAVE IN CENTRAL STATES

Disease Is Spreading Among Victims Of Indiana Flood

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Sub-zero temperatures, that brought death and suffering
to a large portion of the United States, continued today with the prospect of relief offered by weather forecasters.

An almost exact counterpart of last week's frigid wave, the present cold blast was most severe in the middle west and the plains
states, yesterday, extending near-zero temperatures to practically every section of the south.

Throughout the middle West,
temperatures continued between eight degrees below zero in the Great Lakes region to 30 below in parts of Iowa and western Illinois.
Joliet, Ill., reported an unofficial temperature of 32 below zero, while Davenport, Wisc., was held in the grip of an unofficial 35 below temperature.

Bizzards in the central states accompanied almost unprecedented
low temperatures, the worst of which was felt in northwestern Colorado with temperatures ranging from 45 degrees to 62 degrees
below zero.

Below zero temperatures set the southern to shivering. Arkansas, Texas and Tennessee suffered from near-zero cold, Fayetteville, Ark., was reported as the coldest spot in the South with 23 below zero. Unofficial temperatures in Missouri ranged near the 30 degree below
level.

Two more deaths were added to the cold wave's toll in the Chicago area when George Steiner, 22, fell dead yesterday and Mrs. Catherine Miller, 49, was found frozen to death in her back yard here.

More than seventy families were forced to flee in night clothes when flames wrecked two large apartment buildings here yesterday. They were given emergency shelter from the eight below zero temperature in nearby buildings.

Some relief may be expected in the Chicago area later today, according to C. A. Donnel, weather forecaster. At dawn the temperature here was five below zero.

VINCENNES, Ind., Jan. 23.—Sub-zero temperatures are blamed for scores of pneumonia and influenza cases reported today among the hundreds of families marooned by flood waters from the Wabash and White Rivers.

Red Cross surveys show that 2, 265 families are flood sufferers
with 1,925 of these families homeless and the rest in need of assistance.

Leaders of relief expeditions reported that many cases of pneumonia, smallpox and influenza are among the refugees who sought shelter in the crowded buildings in the Decker Chapel area. The first floors of these buildings are loaded
and the refugees are crowded in the second floors.

A Red Cross airplane piloted by Lieuts. Lawrence Genaro and Walter Peck dropped food and emergency medical supplies to the refugees in this area yesterday
shortly before dusk. The fliers said ice was surrounding this area
are too thick to allow relief work
by boat.

No word has been received yet
from eighty-five residents of Decker Township where several feet of water and ice has covered the territory.

A temperature of fourteen degrees below zero was reported.

MERCURY DROPS TO FOURTEEN BELOW

Whether we like the weather or not
We're going to have weather,
whether or not.

So says Weatherman Ernest
Harner, of the Xenia weather
observatory, who announced that the mercury plunged to its lowest depth this morning, touching fourteen degrees below zero at 8 a. m. Thursday when an official reading was taken.

This was two degrees lower than the previous mark of twelve degrees below zero
established last Saturday morning and was also the lowest temperature reported in the Miami Valley, it is believed.

Fair with slowly rising temperatures is the forecast for Thursday and Friday.

GREENE COUNTY READING MORE BOOKS LIBRARY REPORT SHOWS

According to the yearly report of the Greene County Library, more books were read in 1929 than ever before.

During the year 140,654 books were circulated through the Greene County Library agencies, which now number sixty-nine.

This shows a gain of 25,731 over the 1928 figures, an increase of 22 per cent.

Of this number 80,843 were circulated from the main library; 23,207 through school service; 26,325 by the seven active branches and 10,179 by the eight deposit stations, the gain in circulation—other than the main library—being 15,016.

In spite of the increased service of the library, and the opening of the new branch in Osborn, the yearly report shows a decrease in the operating expenses of 1929 over that of 1928.

In 1929 the total expense amounted to $10,519.53 as against $10,804.80 spent the preceding year.

Each inhabitant of the townships served contributed $4.04 this year, instead of $4.32 shown in last year's report.

Of the total population of 26,000 served in the townships, 8202 are registered borrowers of the main library or its branches.

Many unregistered readers use the school collections and deposit station books, who are of course not included in the above figures and in three years the Greene County Library has nearly trebled its circulation.

During 1928 there was a circulation for the county of 57,000 books and the report for 1929 shows a circulation of 140,600.

The increase shows steady growth. January, 1930 promises to be the biggest month in the history of the library. During one day of the month, 520 books went out over the desk of the main library alone.

Seeks Governorship

LIBRARY BUYS AUTO TRUCK FOR DELIVERY

The Greene County Library has just accepted delivery of a Chevrolet delivery truck to be used in the rural service of the library.

It Is Folly To Stay Fat

The proof is everywhere. In every circle you can see that excess fat is disappearing fast. Modern science has found a major cause of excess fat in a weakened gland. In late years, physicians the world over have been fighting that cause. They do not rely on starvation.

This modern method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Each box contains the formula, as prepared by famous experts. People have used these tablets for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Now nearly all have friends who show the results in new beauty, health and vigor.

Go try Marmola. Test the right way to reduce. The results will amaze and delight you. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box.

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

The bewitching charm of soft, flattering curves . . . the lure of a graceful, modern figure . . . don't spoil it by permitting your eyes to be bigger than your stomach. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. Over-indulgence is not commendable—when tempted to over-indulge, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that modern, enchantingly-rounded figure.

Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

LOVE AND THE COMMANDMENTS—If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love.—John 15:10.

A MOMENTOUS MEETING

The five-power naval conference opens in London this week in an atmosphere far more hopeful than surrounded the preparations for it, a few weeks ago. When the conference was first proposed, a wave of enthusiastic approval swept over this country and Great Britain. At last, then followed a period of doubt and questioning, when all the possible obstacles to an agreement to further limit naval armaments were paraded, with a battalion of bugaboos thrown in by the jingoes to destroy the formation. As the hour of the conference has approached, a new hope has risen that much will be achieved.

The difficulties in the way of composing the interests of five powerful and self-reliant nations, with different contacts and needs as wide apart as longitude can be stretched are many and not easily overcome. The London conference can be made a fruitful gathering if international suspicion is replaced by international confidence; and that it is possible to achieve that in a measurable degree cannot be doubted in the light of recent history. War already has lost the status of legality it had enjoyed from the beginning of time to the consummation of the pact of Paris. The document may not entirely prevent wars in the future; but at least it has recorded indelibly a new world attitude toward war as a means of settling disputes. If that attitude could be changed, if the conduct of war has been infinitely humanized, as compared with the slaughter of peoples it formerly involved, who is so determined in his pessimism that he will not admit that further steps toward reducing the cost or dangers of war are possible?

All needed to take another step in London is for the nations represented there to maintain their determination that it shall be taken. There will be conference-wreckers in the lobbies. At home the jingoes and the axe-grinders will be busy in five countries to destroy the will of nations to limit, if not to actually reduce naval armaments, and prevent them from becoming more competitive. The outcome of this momentous gathering will be decided not in London, but in the countries concerned, where selfish interests are in conflict with national and world interests.

GRAVEN HISTORY

Anyone can see why Calvin Coolidge was invited to write the history of the United States in 500 words, which is to be carved on the side of a mountain in South Dakota. Although he has loosened up as a writer for money instead of a talker for nothing, Calvin has a reputation for stark economy of words.

What he will write is not easy to say. A loftier peak than any in South Dakota would be needed as a blackboard for even the bare essentials of American achievement. What he omits will cause more rows than what he admits to his story. Anatole France relates that a Persian ruler ordered a history of his country when he ascended its throne as a youth. Year after year the historiographers brought their work to him; and each time he sent them away with instructions to boil it down to a size that he could read in his lifetime. When he was dying, an old man, they came with the final draft: "We were born, we lived and suffered, we died." About as much of American history can be told in 500 words.

What is most difficult of all to see is why anyone should want to mess up the scenery with a story of the United States, absurdly inadequate to begin with, and out of date before the last letter of it is chiseled into the rock.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

AS TO HAPPINESS

The London Chronicle asks distinguished writers the eternal question—what is the secret of happiness. All have different ideas. Says Warwick Deeping, author of "Sorrell and Son" and other novels: "Happiness implies emotion, feeling. It is the perfume of the flower of our being; and if the flower of our being loses its beauty and its health, the perfume ceases."

"So happiness is beauty and health, beauty in doing and feeling and thinking, for these things go together. It is in breathing, and in heart heat, and in muscle, in the strength of our accomplishments, and in the richness of our thoughts. Happiness is there when the thing that is 'I' works well, and thinks well and loves well."

"We make the error of confusing the state of happiness with other states. We try to attach happiness which is an emotion and universal, to some material condition. We seek to impose spirit upon matter."

"We say: 'If I could be rich I should be happy.'
"Or: 'If I could be successful I should be happy.'
"We invent imaginary conditions. We try to make a sort of fanciful glass vessel and pour happiness into it. In fumbling with the fragments of life we miss the whole."

"Happiness is what we are, what our parents gave us, what we make of what we have. Either life is beautiful or ugly."

ANOTHER IDEA

Hugh Walpole, a novelist who is a bachelor, says the married state is necessary for "most men." He refuses to believe, however, that married men are happier than bachelors. There is no bachelor, he thinks, who does not sometimes wonder whether he is not missing the whole purpose of life because he has no children.

AND THE POET'S IDEA

John Oxenham is poet and idealist.
"No happiness," he says, "is stable and worth having unless it is built on sure foundations, and such foundations are only sure if rooted in the Highest."

"For that, religion—which, as the dictionary tells us, is 'the recognition of supernatural powers and of the duty lying upon man to yield obedience to them'—is undoubtedly essential."

A GREAT CAREER

Young men who read or think at all must be impressed by what is going on in the world of science, of research, invention and discovery. Do they think far enough to see that here may lie their most fruitful career? Young men who are not entirely absorbed with the idea of getting all the money possible will do well to look to the laboratories and to the manufacturing plants for careers.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 136, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

Why do Brazil and the Argentine Republic refuse to ratify the Kellogg anti-war treaty?

Perhaps the attitude of these countries is best brought out by their newspapers, on file in Washington.

"La Prensa" of Buenos Aires, South America's foremost newspaper, explains the Argentine and Brazilian congress' attitude toward the Kellogg pact thus: "It is impossible to have any confidence in these ardent declarations in favor of peace and respect for international law to be set aside whenever American capitalists seek the protection of their government for their invasion of Latin-American countries; or as long as we are certain that, without any declaration of war, troops will be sent against the patriots of any small republic which resists American invasion, and that in all future official communications these patriots will be classified as bandits."

Eel Reunions

Is it true that fresh water eels all visit a certain area in the ocean during their breeding season?

Scientists believe it is definitely established that the whole world's eels repair, for the breeding season, to a North Atlantic area known as the Sargasso sea, extending approximately from 16 to 38 degrees north latitude and 30 to 50 degrees west longitude.

Not Quite Extinct

Are any sailing ships still afloat, as ocean tramps?

According to the International Seaman's union, a few wind jammers under the Finnish flag still rove the seas, and are moderately profitable.

Millions of Slaves

Does slavery yet exist anywhere on earth?

Lady John Simon, an Englishwoman who conducted a quite recent investigation, says that slavery still prevails, actually if not legally, in the Sudan, Arabia, Sierra Leone, Liberia, Burma, Nepal and parts of China. She places the number of the world's slaves between four and six millions.

Mexican War Pensioners

Does the government still pay any Mexican war pensioners?

The last Mexican war pensioner died Sept. 3, 1929, but 11 widows of veterans of that war remained on the pension rolls when the United States pension commissioner made his last year's report.

Explorers' Means

What means of transport have explorers used in attempts, successful and otherwise, to reach the north and south poles?

On their final dashes, after approaching as closely as possible to the poles in sailing or steam ships, Arctic voyagers have variously hauled their own supplies, utilized dogs and Siberian ponies, and employed both dirigibles and planes, not to mention one venture in a non-dirigible balloon.

NEW YORK.—Park avenue covers a lot of territory. No family living there has a wide enough acquaintance to know the parents of all the nice, little, rich boys and girls with whom it would be advantageous for Dotter to play around. So when a Park avenue family finds itself in that predicament, Dotter is duly registered with "Miss Carroll." That's the only name she's known by. She's the founder of The Clearing House for Debutantes, in Swankdom.

A PROCESS SERVER'S CONSCIENCE

Tony writes advertising copy. Mrs. Tony illustrates it. They live in a studio over on 11th street and everybody likes them. They're young, good-looking, happy, just married, talented, popular, inquisitive and all that sort of thing.

A young Englishman called at the studio the other afternoon in quest of Tony. Her husband would be home directly, said Mrs. Tony and meantime would he park in the big wicker chair by the fire and while away the time with a highball and a cigarette? He would and did. Pretty soon Tony came breezing in, whereupon the visitor rose lazily from his place by the fire and served him with a summons.

"But you'll have one highball with me before you depart," said Tony. "Merely a little gesture to art, even in the least of its manifold guises."

The process server shrugged. "Yes," he said, "I'll have another drink, on one condition: That you give me back that summons I just handed you. I, too, make obeisance to art."

A good title for this yarn would be: A Process Server's Conscience.

WHAT'S A SHRINE, ANYWAY?

The Washington Square association had a tough time saving the old Mark Twain home on the southeast corner of Fifth avenue and 9th street.

The boys wanted to replace it with a nice, new shiny bar building.

The Mountain Labored and Brought Forth a Mouse

Why Reed and Robinson Were Chosen on Conference

WASHINGTON.—While the other senators get up and hustle to the Capitol every week day morning in time for an 11 o'clock roll call (what an ungodly hour for the U. S. senate to meet! but noon would be too late, with the whole country hollering for action on the tariff bill) David Aiken Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Joseph Taylor Robinson, of Arkansas, are enjoying a glorious vacation at the international armament limitation conference in London.

However, it will be the turn of Senators Reed and Robinson to do some perspiring when they arrive home again and begin trying to explain to their countrymen how the conference has affected Uncle Sam's navy.

It makes no particular difference how the conference really does affect it. Senators Reed and Robinson, not being professional seafaring men, probably will not understand that anyway. The essential fact is that the bargain (whatever it may be) is certain to be complicated and puzzling. A lot of people are sure to want to find fault with it, and there will be no satisfying them. Or, if the affair should happen to break up in a row, then there will be a terrible howl.

NEVERTHELESS, Dave Reed and Joe Robinson are having a fine time at present.

Plenty of their brother lawmakers are wondering what President Hoover saw in those two that made him pick that particular pair out of a total of 96 eligibles to represent the senate at the London gathering.

The fact is, the president would have had to choose nearly the entire 96 to have suited everyone, and that would have been too many.

FOR one thing Mr. Hoover undoubtedly hit on Senators Reed and Robinson because they both are members of the foreign relations committee.

Reed is a Republican and Robinson a Democrat, thus giving each party a look-in. True, the Farmer-Labor group is unrepresented, and confidentially Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota knows more about foreign relations than Reed and Robinson put together—but the president may have thought a group of one was too small to bother with.

Even as to Reed and Robinson—though foreign relations committee members, neither one is especially prominent on that committee. Reed is interested more deeply in boosting tariff rates on all Pennsylvania products. Robinson, as Democratic leader in the senate, is kept too busy with the details of general political management to devote much time to committee work.

SENATOR WILLIAM E. BORAH is chairman of the foreign relations committee and on that ground if he had wanted to go to London, the president unquestionably would have had to send him.

It might have been good business at that.

Borah's conduct recently has not been such as to win him any rewards from the White House, certainly. Still, assuming that he himself had had a hand in whatever agreement may be arrived at in London, he could not very well back at it later, when it comes up for consideration in the senate—and otherwise he will raise heck about it, or he is not William E. Borah.

But Borah did not want to go; he wants to remain free to raise heck—that we can safely bet on.

OUT of the other Republican foreign relations committeemen, it seems reasonable to believe that President Hoover considered he would be wise to select one who could be depended on to put up a stiff argument in behalf of the hoped-for naval compact, on his return from Europe.

As previously remarked, it is sure to be fiercely attacked, and its defenders must be good scrappers. Reed is first class at this sort of work. He is one of the best lawyers in congress, which consists largely of lawyers—an extraordinarily able pleader; bold, resourceful, convincing and determined. That he probably did not know, when he sailed from Hoboken, which end of the George Washington would travel foremost is no great matter. Like any great legal debater, what he needs to learn about a case he undertakes to argue he learns in a hurry.

ROBINSON will come back from abroad committed to the job of lining up the Democrats in favor of whatever the American delegates have agreed to. He is not the senior Democrat member of the foreign relations committee any more than Reed is the committee's senior Republican member, or chairman. Senator Claude A. Swanson is the senior Democrat.

From the White House's standpoint, possibly Robinson's great merit was discerned in the circumstance that he is extremely susceptible to a graceful bit of recognition of a sort to make him look consequential. And, indeed, it has its value to him—for the Arkansas comes up to be re-nominated in the spring and this is great advertising far him.

Besides, as his party's senate leader, he was an appropriate choice. No one could criticize it, even though Senators Swanson and Key Pittman, who rank him on the committee, were passed over.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS
God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.
—Jewish Proverbs.

"My daughter, who is 11 years old, has been told several times by the school doctor that her tonsils should be removed. Dr. Peters, is this necessary? I don't know of any ill effects they have on her, for she is seldom sick. I would be glad to know what you think of this tonsil business."

"WORRIED MOTHER"
If you don't have confidence in the school doctor, there is no reason why you shouldn't see a throat specialist. Worried Mother.

More enlargement of the tonsils and adenoids, without symptoms—infections, mouth breathing, etc., is not considered a cause for removal, for it is apparently normal for children to have larger tonsils and adenoids than adults. However, if the tonsils are chronically diseased, even though they apparently cause no decided disturbance at the time they are a source of danger, for they may at any time become acutely inflamed. Acutely inflamed tonsils may be the forerunner of serious disturbances, especially acute rheumatism, which is a very serious disease. (They cannot be removed while they are acutely inflamed.)

"Dear Doctor: I would like to know the danger, if any, of wearing a good maternity corset. My doctor forbids the use of a corset of any kind, or round garters. I have purchased a good corset and it seems perfectly comfortable, but if you give women who have been in the habit of wearing corsets, a well-fitting maternity support. The modern elastic girdles, coming to the waist, answer very well. There should be no pressure from above, for this can cause damage, but the support which is given by a properly fitting corset is usually very grateful to the pregnant woman."

Most obstetricians advise, for the holding the stockings up, they must be tight enough so that they restrict the circulation in the legs. The one-piece type of dress and underskirts should be worn, for their weight is borne by the shoulders. There should be no weight on the waist, for that means constriction again.

Your doctor has examined you, Mrs. B., hasn't he? Perhaps there is some reason peculiar to yourself, why you shouldn't wear any support.

If you are interested, we have a list of books on pre- and post-natal care, and an article on the diet during pregnancy and nursing, which you can obtain by following column rules.

Mrs. L.—Take your daughter to an orthopedic specialist. It may be possible that her paralyzed muscles can be much improved through muscle training exercises that he will supervise; if these are ineffective, perhaps he will advise the transplanting of a tendon or portions of a tendon from a healthy muscle to the paralyzed ones.

A specialist's fees vary according to the circumstances of the patient. If you are in financial straits, you can probably get the same specialist's services at some clinic, free of charge. If you will ring up your county medical society, they will give you a list of such surgeons and clinics.

Tomorrow: Rice.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

We all want to be loved. We may be poor or rich. We may be young, old, lovely or homely, charming or repulsive, male or female, but we must be loved.

Practically all the letters that come to me are from people who are unhappy because they are not, or think they are not, loved. Young men write that they are afraid the girl friend does not care. Girls write in by the score that they are in love and the boy friend is not showing the proper interest, and what shall they do. Wives write that their husbands show them no affection, and husbands that wives prefer other men.

It is too bad that married people forget their childhood days so soon. Husbands forget that wives were won by sweet words and kisses. And wives forget that husbands were ensnared by loving glances and admiration of their masculine powers.

If they would both only remember these things and try to show their appreciation instead of taking things for granted, or fault finding, there would be fewer aching hearts and divorces.

"Dear Virginia Lee, I wish you could help me out. I am a married woman 21 years old. My husband is 29 and we have a boy going on three. I was just starting to have a good time when I married, because mother would not let me go out with boys."

"My husband had his good time when he was single. This makes his second time married. I want someone to love and kiss me. He is different. I have tried for four years to make life pleasant for us all, but he said he has been in misery all the time, so what can I do. He won't trust me. I would do anything if only he would love me. I could stand a lot then."

"UNHAPPY WIFE"
Your letter was too long to print all of it. You are sure that you have done just what you would expect him to do under all circumstances, letting him know where you were when you were not at home, and all that? Or has to try to put themselves in another's place to see just how one's actions affect others.

A man may really love his wife a great deal and not think necessary to show it. Just take for granted she knows. The fact that your husband is jealous, you makes it seem that he is indifferent. It is too bad his wife takes him away from you in the evenings just when you could get together.

I would advise you to try it harder to get along for the baby's sake as well as yours and his. Don't believe he means it when he says he's through. Your case like that of so many other girls who are not allowed to have their boy friends at home and run off and get married, not realizing at all that that means no less freedom and usually greater unhappiness.

LONELY MARY: It may well be that the boy friend's present job is to blame for his seeing you as often as he did. Try to understand and sympathize. Maybe he's as lonely as you. Hope this advice will help you poor "worried heart."

X: Why not enjoy the friest ship with this boy and not worry? As long as you are not serious and he isn't either, but on each other's society, let us enjoy alone.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

If we were to go without clothes, probably all of us would spend more time in caring for our skins, the one covering for the body that is always with us. And such a wonderfully attractive and delicate covering, too, far more responsive to good care than clothes, although far more often neglected.

To be well-groomed one must have a consciousness of looking right in every detail, from the skin out. So let's begin by considering some skin faults that are often neglected, perhaps because they are hidden. I speak to you so often about complexions and facial skin that today I am going to speak of the skin on the other parts of your body.

Roughened and chapped skins in the winter are a common ailment. What some people call goose pimples occur on the upper arms and legs. Chapped patches come at the ankles and wrists, especially, and sometimes chapped places are found on other parts of the body. If neglected they are not only unattractive, but genuinely uncomfortable for when they grow very dry and rough the skin may crack and bleed.

Treat these places with plenty of nourishing cream, a rich, anti-wrinkle cream or other nourishing cream. Pat it into the skin at night. In the day time, before going out or after bathing, protect the skin with a foundation cream or soothing lotion.

I know one of Europe's most famous and beloved queens, who gets her hand lotion in two-ounce sizes. She has discovered quantities of soothing lotion needed to keep her delicate skin smooth and supple through the cold winter months.

On the back and shoulders I do not uncommon to find blackheads and tiny eruptions even when these blemishes do not occur on the face. The skin in these areas ordinarily receives less care. Thorough cleansing and exfoliation of the skin on other parts of the body.

When bathing, scrub your back and shoulders with a long-handled bath brush and a good bath soap. For acne be sure to use a special prepared medicated acne soap. Frequently it is a wise precaution to use the same blackhead or pore paste on your back, shoulders, as well as on the face that you use for your face. Rub elbows, too, can be smoothed with this penetrating wash, or if the elbows are very bleached with a good bleaching cream; or use lemon juice peroxide in equal parts, followed by an application of nourishing cream to keep the skin soft.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Coach "Pinky" Wilson refusing to be enthusiastic concerning Xenia Central High's prospects of defeating Miamisburg High in a basketball game on the Burger court that will bring together the two undefeated teams in the Miami Valley League Friday night.

It is conceded that the veteran Burger quintet will have at least one advantage over the Bucs as the playing court will be strange to Xenia and familiar to Miamisburg.

The Buccaneer team has been an in and out for this season, winning one night and losing the next but Xenia has not yet lost two games in a row and if history repeats itself the Bucs should return to winning form Friday night after losing to Springfield last Saturday eve.

Another factor that must be considered is the fact Xenia court teams have a penchant for winning Miami Valley League games and that the local quintets are always at their best or nearly so in league encounters.

Fans recall the Xenia-Piqua championship game last year as an example of the faculty Xenia teams have of rising to supreme heights when the occasion demands. Both teams entered that final game with unblemished league records and the league title hinged on the outcome.

During the first half of this game the Bucs went on a sensational scoring spree, tallying thirteen points in a row and that was their margin of victory, despite the fact Bob Buell, regular center, was out of the game all the last half with an injury. Hurley filled his shoes capably and John Gibney and Joe Smittle gave an exemplification of the stalling game at its best in the last ten minutes of play.

All of that ancient history is probably a little beside the point but it serves as an illustration of what has been done by Xenia court teams in the past and the Buccaneer team this season is just about due to hit its true stride. Xenia, at least from the viewpoint of spectators, looked pretty terrible against Springfield but followers of the team are pulling for Wilson's boys to emerge from the slump Friday night.

The Bucs will be playing with the knowledge that a defeat means virtual elimination from the league race and that a victory would practically clinch the title for the third straight year. It would also give Xenia permanent possession of the Dayton Daily News trophy awarded to the league school winning the title three times. Xenia has two legs on the cup, having retained the championship for two straight years.

Admittedly the Bucs will have far to go before they attain again the finished style of play which they demonstrated last season but if they are at the peak of their form, they should beat the Burgers Friday.

Apparently the present Dayton Stivers basketball team is headed for another state championship. Led by Captain Bill Hosket, six foot-four inch center, who is now a finished player, the Orange Crusader is bowling over all opposition again this season and is undefeated to date.

Just as an indication of how strong Stivers is again this year, the Crusader defeated the highly-touted Fair quintet, national champions of Mexico 32 to 24 Tuesday night. On the preceding night, Notre Dame had found it necessary to inject its first team into the game in the last five minutes of play in order to defeat the Mexican team by two points.

And Xenia Central plays Dayton Stivers February 22 at Dayton. What a prospect! Incidentally, the Stivers victory over the Mexican quintet was the twenty-second consecutive court triumph for the Orange.

During the course of the contest the varsity used twelve players. Teegarden, forward, was the leading sharpshooter for the winners, scoring thirteen points, followed by Antell, center, with ten. M. Dawson led the Alumni point-making with nine markers. The lineups:

WILBERFORCE WILL PLAY DAYTON TEAM; COLLEGE CANCELLED

Scheduled as the opening game of the inter-collegiate basketball season for both teams, a contest between Wilberforce University and the quintet from West Virginia State College, booked for Friday night in Beacon gymnasium, has been cancelled and Wilberforce will meet a Dayton independent team instead. It is announced.

Next Monday night a traditional West Virginia foe, Bluefield Institute, will be engaged at Wilberforce in what will be the inaugural game on the inter-collegiate schedule and it promises to be one of the best games of the season. Wilberforce and Bluefield have each dropped a game to non-collegiate aggregations.

Coach Graves is providing the Force with several warm-up home attractions preliminary to a ten-day invasion of the South during which the Green and Gold will meet the best the South has to offer, including Tuskegee Institute and Knoxville College.

BOWLING

REPORT SMALL POX CASES IN COUNTY

Three cases of small pox in Jamestown led to a school vaccination order Wednesday by school authorities.

Only three cases of the disease have been reported so far, and all are mild, according to Dr. R. H. Grute, county health commissioner, Thursday.

School children not vaccinated before January 24 will be barred from attending school, according to a resolution passed by the Silvercreek Twp. and Jamestown Village school boards at a joint meeting Wednesday.

PLAN ANNIVERSARY OF SCOUT MOVEMENT

A special movement in connection with the observance of the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement during the week of February 8 to 14 is being arranged by the troop committee of Troop No. 45, Boy Scouts of America.

A special church service is planned and an address will be given by the Rev. Adrian Lehold, who is the troop chaplain.

Plans are also announced for a recognition dinner for members of the Patrol Leaders' School and Scouts of this school will receive certificates. Scout executives of the Area will also attend this affair which will be held at the First Lutheran Church, sponsor of Troop 45.

TESTS PASSED WHEN SCOUT TROOP MEETS ON TUESDAY NIGHT

Troop No. 45, Boy Scouts of America, held an interesting meeting Tuesday night, featured by passing of tests for the "Achievement Round-Up" being conducted under auspices of Tecumseh Council.

This troop has pledged itself to have thirty-three registered Scouts, including eight Scouts who will receive merit badges, six additional first class, eight as second class Scouts and six tenderfoot class. Awards will be made at the Tecumseh Council Court of Honor to be held at Springfield February 8 during the celebration of Scout anniversary week.

All Scouts will receive gold plated badges free of charge providing they pass the required tests.

The troop committee will arrange for necessary transportation to Springfield.

Reports from the council indicate that a large percentage of Scouts will receive this special recognition.

PITTICISMS

The Yanks have added fourteen players. To win the pennant they will have to take fourteen away from the Athletics.

Manager Bob Shawkey, a reformed pitcher, had better study astronomy. He has too many stars who don't shine.

Baseball is as inconsistent as a blonde on Broadway. Last season the A's had the attendance, and the Yanks the seating capacity. So nobody made too much money.

The Yanks have discovered a pitcher named Americus, which puts them all even with Columbus.

Those seventy-six red hot rookies the National League is boasting about must not have read the papers last October. They may find they're in the wrong league.

A New York amateur knocked out two opponents in the same evening. Since when did those guys start going 1 for doubleheaders?

It's beginning to look as though the Boston Bruins have that hockey championship on ice.

LOOKOUT, GIRLS!

Co-eds At Northwestern Will Mob You If You Write Notes To College Radio Star.

WASHED DISHES IN TWO FRATERNITY HOUSES

SANG SUNDAYS IN A SMALL CHURCH IN EVANSTON

BROADCASTS REGULARLY OVER A HOOKUP OF FROM 30 TO 60 STATIONS

FRED WALDNER

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of sketches of the most prominent radio artists of the day. Others follow.)

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
Central Press Staff Writer
CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—(Aph-ha!) That is a deep and pleased sigh from a million girlish throats. Here, at last, is that grand, handsome, golden-voiced college boy—Fred Waldner.

But, look out, girls. The co-eds at Northwestern University will mob you if you as much as write a dash note to their Freddie and me!—he thought he just couldn't live without her blonde tresses— to Chicago. And Freddie found both the blonde beauty and jobs scarce. He did everything, even to washing dishes, after his bankroll of $10 wore itself out. Every theater and broadcasting station turned him down.

He decided he might as well spend his time loafing at college as any other place. So he borrowed money, first at one sorority house and then another. Sundays he sang in a small church in Evanston.

Someone from a broadcasting hookup heard him, and he was invited to join up. That, however, has not been interfering with his being soloist with the Northwestern Glee club—or playing leads in campus and musical comedy and dramatic productions.

Bearing Up Well

And for your private information—that blonde he "cherchez" to Chicago passed out of his life soon after. But—he is managing to bear up very well. Freddie is not the boy to let one woman wreck his life. It takes a whole sorority house full to worry him now.

MORE PAPERS ADDED TO LIBRARY HERE

Several more newspapers are now available at the Greene County District Library, it is being announced.

Subscriptions have been placed for the Cleveland Plain Dealer and the Cincinnati Enquirer, it is said. Additional book review publications have also been added to the list of subscriptions. These include the New York Times Book Review section, "Books," the review section of the New York Herald Tribune and the Saturday Review of Literature.

When you think of Texas and are tempted to make snap judgments, it is always well to remember that Texas was once an independent nation. Texas fought for her own liberty, all by herself, and won the fight. Texas maintained her own independence as a nation, and could have defended it right up to now if she had wanted to. Texas deliberately and voluntarily chose membership in the Union of States.

Texas isn't altogether like other states. She has a history, as well as Massachusetts, California, Kansas and Georgia. She has her own ideas of aristocracy, as valid, perhaps, as those that are celebrated in Connecticut, New York, Maryland and South Carolina. Texas

The World And All

BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

THIS TEXAS

Texas has been so much the subject of misrepresentation, and is consequently so much misunderstood abroad, that I am not at all surprised your Lordship should have fallen into the common error in regard to the character of her citizens. I am aware that the general impression abroad is that Texas is peopled with a wild, turbulent set of adventurers, impatient of all restraint, and reckless of all obligation, either civil, legal or moral, and who are never content unless they have thrown society into convulsions—and yet I know the fact that a more mistaken estimate was never formed of the character of any people.

I have met many Texans in New York. There are hundreds of them who are distinguishing themselves in one way or another in the metropolis. There are thousands of them, who are distinguishing themselves by minding their own business, working hard, and being agreeable neighbors.

Most real Texans are likable folk, with a pleasant manner of speech, which is neither western nor southern, but distinctly Texan. The Texans you meet in New York and Paris and Constantinople are, like Minister Terrell in his knew the trend of conquering armies of white Europeans, long before the Mayflower docked at the celebrated Rock.

So you can't blame the Texans for refusing to be dumfounded by the rest of us Americans. You can't blame the Texans for going about their affairs in their own ways, and for clinging tenaciously to some of their own traditions.

COURT DISPOSES OF FIVE LIQUOR CASES HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Various dispositions were made by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy Wednesday in the cases of five colored men charged with violating the liquor laws.

Changing his plea from not guilty to guilty to an affidavit accusing him of selling liquor, Charles Cassell, Yellow Springs, was fined $500 and costs, while James Jackson, Xenia, was fined $150 and costs after being found guilty of a charge of possessing liquor.

Melville Jackson, proprietor of a billiard parlor at Yellow Springs, was convicted of keeping a place where liquor is sold but the court found him not guilty of a second charge of possessing liquor. Sentence was deferred for three days, pending the filing of a motion for a new trial.

Judge Gowdy found Cassell guilty of a charge of possessing liquor and ordered him discharged while the case of Forman Sanford, Xenia, accused of selling liquor, was taken under advisement by the court.

FORMER XENIANS IN COLUMBUS PAGEANT

Mr. and Mrs. Orie F. Clemmer, former Xenians, are both taking part in the Christian Unity Pageant which is a feature of the Centennial Pentecostal Celebration at Columbus this week.

The pageant was staged Tuesday and Wednesday nights and will be repeated Thursday night and again Saturday night at the Columbus Auditorium. It is titled "The Church Triumphant" and is staged with 1,200 participants enlisted from Columbus churches with musical accompaniment, including the Gloria Trumpeters.

The pageant depicts the workings of the spirit of unity among Christians in a series of dramatic, colorful episodes drawn from nineteen centuries of history and from the present.

He experimented with colored bread at the request of a hostess who wanted "something different."

ARCHITECT DENIES CHARGE OF BRIBERY

CANTON, O., Jan. 23.—With a maze of legal tangles and argumentation constantly bobbing up during the course of the trial of Albert L. Thayer, New Castle, Pa., architect for the Molly Stark tuberculosis sanitarium, charged with soliciting a $7,500 bribe, it was predicted today that the jury will not get the case until sometime next week.

Thayer, who is charged with having solicited the $7,500 bribe from George F. S. Melbourne, general contractor for the hospital by "juggling accounts and altering specifications" took the stand in his own defense yesterday.

He emphatically denied that he had solicited the bribe and that he had received $6,500 from Melbourne as part payment. He also denied that he had changed any of the specifications or accounts.

It was expected that a mass of statistics and details of the work performed by Thayer on the hospital would be recited from the witness stand today by the accused architect.

OCTOGENARIAN IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Death of Mrs. Phoebe Ellen Sears, 80, which occurred at her residence two miles south of Jamestown at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, was pronounced due to acute hemorrhage of the lungs by Dr. R. L. Haines, Jamestown, Greene County coroner, who was summoned.

Mrs. Sears' husband, Isaac, had retired for the night and about 8 p. m. heard his wife struggling in an adjoining room. Getting out of bed he rushed to his wife's bedroom, where he found she was suffering from a hemorrhage from the mouth.

He went to a nearby neighbor, Claude Jacks, where he summoned

Dr. Haines. Death had already taken place when the coroner arrived.

Surviving besides the husband are four children.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

UNION SERVICE AT LUTHERAN CHURCH

at union services scheduled to be held at the First M. E. Church next Sunday but the congressman was called to Washington, D. C., and has cancelled the engagement. The change of plans was then decided upon.

The restless thermograph tells why Ohio winters are mighty tough on motor oil

The Thermograph automatically registers minute-by-minute variations in temperature. During typical Ohio winters it often traces a rise or fall of more than 25° in a single day.

But toughest lubricating tasks are easy for this special oil, made to meet Ohio's weather

New SOHIO MOTOR OIL free from harmful wax

JUST about the busiest things in Ohio during every winter are those intricate little machines, called Thermographs, used by official weather observers. They record the sharp shifts in Ohio temperature—warm to cool to cold to hot. And their records show, graphically, the severe demands made on motor oil in this State.

This winter you have a new motor oil made especially to stand this grueling pace—New Sohio. Now you can be sure of positive lubrication for your motor no matter how variable the temperature may be. You can count on smooth, easy starts on cold mornings . . . New Sohio flows freely at low temperatures. And when there's a sudden spurt-up of the mercury you needn't fear a break-down in that tough protecting film of oil between moving parts.

Never before has a motor oil been given such flexibility and sturdiness. A newly developed refining process frees New Sohio from harmful wax at 50° below zero. This leaves an oilier oil—smoother—longer lasting—ready for the toughest lubricating tasks.

Listen to the Sohioans every Tuesday Evening at 7:30 P. M. . . . WTAM

Expect These Results With New Sohio Motor Oil In Your Crankcase:

- Easier starting—less drain on battery.
- Less need for slow warming up.
- Full, smooth power—unfailing piston seal.
- Reduced carbon formation.
- Less wear on moving parts.

TEACHER INJURED

Miss Eloise Farquhar, London, O., primary teacher in the public school at Cedarville, suffered a broken right leg in a coasting accident in that village Wednesday night. She was riding with a group of friends on a sled which was being pulled by an auto and as the car rounded a corner the sled upset.

Made Diplomat

Her Aunt Charlotte, in response to a wireless message sent her from the steamer in mid-ocean by her thoughtful niece, was at the Hoboken wharf with a chauffeur driving a big limousine. The seventy-year-old Aunt Lottie, who wore the fresh, pink complexion of a debutante and the slim form of a motion picture star might have envied, received her "darling Marge" in a manner quite befitting Margery's description of her.

She was not effusive nor gushing. She was just sweetly tender and gracious. She greeted Pat with a kiss on each cheek, sealing Margery's invitation with her own. When the lieutenant and doctor were presented to her she at once insisted they ride over to New York with them. There was plenty of room for their hand luggage, she assured them, and Bill—the chauffeur—would drop them wherever they wished.

Rex Dallard shot a furtive look at Pat. She caught the glance and answered the inquiry in his eyes with her warm, friendly smile and an affirmative nod. He turned to

Pat. "I'm going to talk with Maxwell before I sleep tonight," he announced, as he glanced at his watch. "It is now two o'clock. It will be four-thirty by the time we can get ashore in Hoboken." He looked speculatively at Pat.

"Have you any knowledge of where he can be found between five and six o'clock in the evening?" he asked.

"He won't be at home—apartments in Madison Avenue," replied the girl, her gaze fixed inquiringly on the lieutenant. She added: "You must not let him know, Rex. That would not be fair to him. He is a crooked fellow, you know, is forewarned. We must fight him with his own weapons."

Dallard's mouth was set in a stubborn line.

"He won't be expecting to see me," he said, argumentatively. "He'll be off his guard!"

"Max is never off his guard!" declared Pat, in positive tones. "Remember his middle name!"

The lieutenant finally was persuaded that discretion, in any and all dealings with Herbert Maxwell, was valor's entire working part and must, therefore, be very carefully observed. His proposed talk with Maxwell was postponed to a more propitious date.

It was considerably after five o'clock before the steamer, having complied with the custom house, immigration and other harbor requirements, had been warped to her dock in the slip at Hoboken and was beginning to discharge her passengers.

"Pat is going to live with me at the home of my Aunt Charlotte in Brooklyn for a while," Margery had told Dallard and the doctor earlier in the day, when the discussion of ways and means of circumventing Maxwell and getting Jimmy out of his clutches had revealed the immediate plans of the two men.

These plans, it may be stated here, hinged entirely on Pat's need of friends willing and able to fight for her during her coming encounter with Maxwell.

"The house where my aunt lives," Margery had added, "belongs to the last bud on the last limb of the last of the O'Lyne family tree. The bud, of course, is yours, truly, Margery O'Lyne. The apostrophe has become a period in the Americanization process of the last generation. The house faces on a pretty little park in a nice neighborhood and is altogether modern, having been entirely rebuilt only three years ago, the year my father, Felix O'Lyne, died. Dad, you see, always used the apostrophe. My aunt Lottie is the sweetest old lady in the world, and any friends of mine are always welcome in her house. So, whenever you boys feel the need of relaxing, of getting away from New York's noise and glare, just hop the 'L'."

FOR THE LOVE o' PAT By C. L. WEBB © 1929

READ THIS FIRST:

Lieutenant Rex Dallard, Dr. Frank Gordon and Nurse Margery Lynne, suspecting a plot to rob their new friend, Patricia Blair, Red Cross driver and heiress, and her twin brother, Jimmy, of their fortune, unite forces in Paris at the close of the World War. Patricia is kidnapped, Jimmy disappears, and Herbert Maxwell, the twins' guardian, appears to take a fake "Jimmy" back to New York to claim the inheritance. After his departure Patricia is released and, with her friends, she sails for home when they learn Maxwell has also taken the real Jimmy with him. Dallard is deeply in love with Patricia, as is the doctor, although neither of them has mentioned the subject.

The Theater

Removing the "smack" from kisses was one of the first accomplishments of the talking picture. An old-fashioned osculation would sound like a Fourth of July celebration on the sensitive microphone so the first rule now is to keep the kiss silent as in school.

The lips now approach each other gently, silently, soulfully and touch almost imperceptibly. Then there is a silent pressure, calculated to bring the heart to the mouth, and thrill unspeakably the audience. Then the separation and you have had a much more satisfactory, as well as aesthetic, kiss than the old fashioned one.

Are you bored? Then that gives away your age.

So comical has the pre-talkie embrace become to the modern audience that Monte Brice, the director, is using it as one of the high lights of his run making in talkie comedies. He has also bor-

Twenty Years '10-' Ago -'30

George W. Blackburn has gone traveling with a hypnotist and left Saturday for Piqua and Troy.

Practically the only business transacted by the O. S. and S. O. Home trustees at their adjourned meeting Saturday night, was the closing up of the contracts for the power plant, and the sewerage disposal plant.

The old bell of the First U. P. Church called the congregation to worship Sunday for the first time in many weeks.

More snow has fallen here during the month of January than any previous January. Twenty-one inches of snow have fallen since the first of the year.

along Sheldon Road in Brook Park village where the victims of yesterday's tragedy had lived happily until yesterday. Sorrow is in every home. In those homes where children are missing are heart-broken and grief-stricken parents. From other homes parents are sending out heart-felt sympathy and at the same time thanking the powers above that their children were not numbered among the victims.

Like a horrible nightmare, the crash scene flooded the minds of every resident in this district. It was recalled by the saddened parents how they had packed their children off to school, watching them laughing, scolding and pulling childish pranks. The mothers recalled how they had watched the ill-fated bus carrying their children off to school.

Then there was that terrific crash. There was the sight of the splintered and tangled bus. And there was the gruesome sight of the mangled and blood-covered bodies of children.

Every one of the eleven occupants of the bus, except one, was killed. The lone survivor—and how she escaped is a miracle—is 12-year-old Ethel Mae Davidson. She is in Berea Community Hospital with a broken leg and she will recover, according to hospital attaches. Two of Ethel's brothers were killed instantly.

The crash in the mind of this 12-year-old girl survivor, remains as only a jumbled terrifying experience. She could not tell a connected story of the accident.

A four-way inquiry into the bus crash was started with Berea, Ohio, being eight below at Columbus, four below at Cincinnati and zero at Cleveland. The warmest spot in the United States at 8 o'clock Thursday morning was Miami, Fla., where the temperature was 70 degrees while Miami had Wednesday's high mark with a temperature of 80. Los Angeles temperature was 52 degrees Thursday morning, Tampa, Fla., was 53 and New Orleans 26.

ish empire," he declared. He asserted that Great Britain's desire for sea power was not based upon the acquisition of wealth or territory but based upon "the will to live."

He declared that "the will to live" was the foundation of British naval policy.

The Indian and Irish Free State delegates then followed with brief statements in which they promised their heartiest co-operation and then Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy launched into a dramatic exposition of Italy's position.

Italy, he declared, had to have parity with any continental power but was prepared to reduce to the utmost any other power would go.

He said that Italy favored as maximum reduction in armaments and was willing to leave to the powers at the conference to determine the size of armaments but would have to reserve the right to determine the complexion of her own navy within the limitations prescribed by the conference.

Like M. Tardieu, Signor Grandi, who spoke in English, stressed Italy's needs because of her long coastlines and her necessity for food imports.

Former Premier Reijiro Wakata, the chief Japanese delegate, declared that Japan's purpose was to promote peace, economy and good will.

He reminded the delegates of the accomplishments of the Washington conference of 1921-1922 and declared that the present conference was a continuation of the Washington parley in purpose.

The New Zealand and South African delegates made the closing speeches which were brief statements in which the need of their countries for protection as learned in the World War was stressed.

It was regarded likely that another full meeting will not be held until next week.

Premier MacDonald said that more can be accomplished by individual negotiations between the delegates upon specific points of difference than in a general meeting.

Thus French and Italian delegates will negotiate privately on the issue of parity of their navies, the Mediterranean powers will hold similar private negotiations over the proposed security pact, the United States and Great Britain will discuss cruiser strength and Britain and France will discuss French cruiser ratios.

Hence for several days the conference will break up into numerous private discussions between double and triple powers on controversial issues relating to themselves alone.

The chiefs of the various delegations were to meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon at 10 Downing St. to discuss the procedure for these private meetings.

"We will work by groups of delegations," Premier MacDonald stated. "The heads of the various delegations will appoint experts and sub-committees as necessary."

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Divested of the impressive pomp and ceremony which accompanied its brilliant opening in the royal gallery of the house of lords on Tuesday, the five-power naval disarmament conference began its second plenary session today in ancient St. James' Palace, official seat of the British royal court.

In contrast to the initial meeting when some 800 persons were present to witness and participate in the opening ceremonies, today's meeting was strictly private. The chief delegates of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan gathered to get the real business of the conference under way, and newspapermen were not permitted to listen in on the negotiations.

While much of the pomp of the opening ceremony was lacking, a certain amount of pageantry attached to today's meeting by virtue of the historic setting of the conference. St. James' Palace, which the residence of the Prince of Wales, York House, adjoins, is really the royal palace of Britain, although no sovereign has lived there for generations.

The palace, however, still retains its dominant place in the court life of the nation, for it is here that King George holds his brilliant levees, and its balcony is the place from where announcements of the greatest import are made to the people of London.
